our product

The choice of door handle gives an indication of the taste of the person living in that house.

Small details, like the shape or material are enough to show your personality.

Choosing specific door handles is often not an easy choice, which is why we at Fortessa™ have carefully brought together this selection of ranges to suit all tastes.

Our complete package includes quality Italian design. These global designs are brought to life by highly skilled craftsmen and engineers. Fortessa™ handles are finished by hand to give you a unique creation every time.

production

The materials used on Fortessa™ handles, whether brass, chrome or stainless-steel are all thoroughly product tested.

Our products undergo pre-treatments and are coated with special resins, to give a very high resistance to weather conditions, shocks and abrasion and maintain their natural shine.

Style is not easy to define,
but you know it when you see it.

testing & inspection

Our handles undergo stringent tests for strength, stability and mechanical performance.

The protective surface layer of each handle has been checked for its resistance to corrosion.

Performance of all working parts is rigorously tested.

All fortessa™ products undergo thorough testing at all stages of manufacture.

All fortessa™ handles must comply to strict quality examinations.

Each handle is assessed for its scratch-resistance quality.

And finally, before dispatch, all batches are carefully checked by eye to ensure they are perfect.

Individually hand-finished, each item is unique, and our entire range is fully tested.
